BIOGRAPHY

As a defense contractor, award-winning screenwriter and novelist, dhtreichler has wandered the world, visiting garden spots and much more. He led teams in classified intelligence, high-tech battlefield sensors and training systems. Having lived and worked with our intelligence agents and soldiers, through the conflicts, and the turmoil of recent decades, he paints vivid backdrops for his stories. Like him, the men and women he portrays, attempt to make sense of our fast-changing world. He has held a lifelong interest in the profound influence of rapidly changing technology on our lives and relationships. Exploring that power, what has changed and what might become, forms an insightful theme of his seven novels. Written mostly among folks he met in hotels and airplanes around the world, his stories also reflect the universal desires and fears of real people everywhere.
